Our Mission:

To draw people to Christ, maximize our potential, and creatively meet the physical and emotional needs of the church and community.

I Am Legend & the Belt of Truth!

I was watching Will Smith's, I Am Legend the other day. This movie is about a virus designed to cure cancer, but ended up destroying 90% of all mankind. Out of the 10% who survived the epidemic, most of them turned into beasts referred to as "Darkseekers" who fed on the very few who were immune to the virus. Will Smith played LtCol Robert Neville who, as far as he knew, was the only remaining uninfected survivor. He remained vigilant by staying in the light; he went out only during the day and ensured sunshine made its way into his home in daylight hours.

Neville spent most of his days collecting survival supplies, hunting deer, and broadcasting on a radio station calling for any other uninfected survivors to hook up with him. He would say to any proposed listeners, "You're not alone." He also frequently rented CDs from a store where he set up mannequins to pose as patrons and a cashier. He actually carried on conversations with them. The loneliness got to him after while. He even broke down and repeatedly begged one of them to talk back to him after his German Shepherd, Sam, died. I don't think we can blame him after we consider he had already lost his wife and daughter in a helicopter crash as they were evacuating the city. I suppose we'd all reach a breaking point at some point.

The Darkseekers would've destroyed Neville had it not been for another uninfected survivor and her son. They knew about him because of his broadcasts and came to his rescue. Anna told him the Lord told her about a survivors' camp in Vermont. Neville had had enough. After all he had seen he was thoroughly convinced there was no God and argued his point with Anna very, very aggressively. Too bad he didn't live long enough to see it. If he had survived another onslaught of the Darkseekers, he probably would've lived to see the camp for himself as Anna and her son did at the movie's end.

The truth is the virus of the devil's lies has been destroying populations for generations. Those of us who are surviving his attacks must continue to fight daily against darkseekers. Our darkseekers are not flesh and blood, but real spiritual beings aggressively advancing Satan's agenda (Eph. 6:12). God's Word tells us to defeat them with the belt of truth. When the Apostle Paul mentioned having our loins girt about with truth (Eph. 6:14), he was saying the truth, like a belt, is to be worn tightly. Just as belts restrain, the truth of God is to do the same by holding us tightly to God's promises even when it looks impossible for Him to fulfill them. Our God is mighty and He will prove Himself faithful in our battles with the forces of darkness. I Am Legend and the Belt of Truth should encourage us all to:

1. Stay in the Light (I Jn. 1:7)
2. Connect with the community of faith (Heb. 10:25)
3. Believe God...no matter what (Heb. 11:6)

New Member Profile: Mawusi Kambui

My name is Mawusi A. Kambui. I am from Flint, Michigan. I moved to Warner Robins on July 7, 2011 to be closer to my twin sister and her family. I learned of Union Grove from my aunt and uncle, Minister and Mrs. Adams. When Pastor Clarke's home church, Grace Emanuel Baptist Church, was invited to worship with Union Grove last summer, my aunt and uncle (Grace Emanuel members) traveled to Warner Robins with them. My aunt contacted every member of our family that lives in Georgia and promised if we fellowshiped with Union Grove, we would find a "home-away-from-home" church family. She was right! I ended up joining Union Grove on September 11, 2011.

As a new member of Union Grove, my only expectation is to learn how to grow stronger as a Christian. Thus far, that expectation is being met. Pastor Clarke, my deacon (Deacon Robert Simmons), the members of the G.T.A.H. Ministry, and the entire Union Grove family are leading by example to show me the type of Christian I want to be: loving, welcoming, obedient, faithful, and diligent.

In my spare time, I love going to the movies by myself, meeting my twin sister for lunch about once a week, and watching my nieces and nephews grow into "smarty pants."

I currently serve with the G.T.A.H. Ministry as the newsletter editor. I am also interested in joining the church choir. Although I do not have the gift to sing, I love praising the Lord through singing.

Youth Appreciation: Jaida Williams

Jaida Jeneé Williams is the daughter of Sister Jairee Williams and has been a member of Union Grove since November 2008. Jaida is a bright and intelligent eight year old who attends David Perdue Primary School. She is currently in the second grade and is as active as they come.

When Jaida is not in school, church, or spending time with her family, she maintains a tight schedule doing extra curricular activities. She attends the Academy of Dance where she has been dancing ballet and tap for the past four years. She also enjoys playing the piano in which she has been taking private lessons for four and a half years. Gymnastics is another activity that she enjoys and has been attending Precision South Gymnastics Academy for more than two years. In addition, she is a member of 4Him 2 Dance Ministry, Girl Power, and just recently became a member of the Youth Ushers.

Jaida's teachers, since pre-kindergarten, have each said that Jaida is going to be a leader when she gets older. Even at eight years old, Jaida has already begun to express that she has big dreams for her future. She has stated that she is still trying to figure out which college she would like to attend, but definitely one where she can pursue a career in education so she can be a great teacher one day.

WOW! Ministry Workers Training

When the members of the various ministries of Union Grove attended the Ministry Worker's Training on April 28, 2012, it was as if they were at a pep rally. From the time Pastor Clarke posed the question if they were glad to be a part of Union Grove, the members were pumped to learn as much as possible in order to maximize the church.

Utilizing the book by Sam Chand, Cracking Your Church's Culture: Seven Keys to Unleashing Vision and Inspiration, Pastor Clarke introduced the group to the various cultures that may be found in many of the churches. Dr. Chand says, "Culture is not only what we do, but also why and how we do it."

The following explanations of the various cultures by Dr. Chand should give a glimpse into what might be happening in Union Grove as well as other churches.

Inspiring cultures are ones with clear direction and an atmosphere of trust and respect. The inspiring cultures have leaders that give clear directions and value the input of every person. Because the leaders aren't authoritarians, an atmosphere of trust and respect attracts the winners. Because creativity is expected and rewarded at times, top leaders retrain or replace ministry leaders who can't provide a positive work environment.

Accepting cultures have a positive atmosphere but some unresolved issues. This type of culture, as defined by Dr. Chand, has a few incompetent leaders who remain on the job even though they are incompetent. Because the leaders in this culture are supportive of each other's roles and goals, some difficult decisions are avoided instead of addressed. Mediocrity is not an option. Top leaders are searching for ministry leaders who are assertive about taking care of problems in the culture. Due to the lackadaisical leaders some new members placed in this group are inclined to become deeply disappointed.

The leadership team of the stagnant culture sees staff members as production units, not people. Because the leaders are tolerated, not trusted or respected, complaining becomes the pastime. Small problems become large problems as people feel compelled to defend their position as they hang on to their power. Although the top leaders may send the leaders in this culture to seminars, the leadership team is not willing to make changes. Anyone that joins this group, with the purpose to bring life to the organization, may after a while give up.

Discouraging cultures might have members who never forget. Unresolved problems might lead to having leaders who become more authoritarian and threatening. When looking for remedies, they are unwilling to blame "the man in the mirror." While trying to remedy the unresolved problems and unhealed wounds, they demand compliance and loyalty and blame incompetent or unmotivated people in the organization. This type of culture can lead to the worst culture: toxic culture.

The toxic culture has leaders with closed minds that accept no advice or ideas from anyone in or out of the group. Those who want to leave are considered disloyal or uncreative. No communication is evident, for it is considered that suspicious ethical, financial, or sexual problems within the group are ignored. Quite often, leaders don't sense the toxicity, but it poisons their relationships and derails their vision.

Cracking Your Church's Culture: Seven Keys to Unleashing Vision and Inspiration would be a helpful resource for any church leader or pastor seeking a practical guide to bring about change at the leadership level. Pastor Clarke did an excellent job in introducing those in attendance to the dynamics found in many churches, as well as revealing what it takes to put in place a more positive church culture in the Growve Zone.

Deacon's Corner

A Testimony by Deacon Robert Simmons

Let me first start with defining the word "truth." Simply put, truth is any Word that proceeds out of the mouth of God. If you know and believe in the Word of God, you know and have truth. With that being said, let me start this testimony with two truths that allowed me to have victory with the war raging between the powers and how I used my belt of truth to overcome.

Truth 1: Revelations 3:7 says "...He who opens and no one shuts, and shuts and no one opens."

Truth 2: God is the provider of all our needs.

It was these two truths that allowed me to stand strong without being moved.

In 2007, I was working for a base contractor who was running out of contracts for me to work on. For months, my job hung in the balance. Being that I was proactive in looking for a job, an opportunity opened up with a government contractor company. I applied for the job and the waiting game began.

For the next six months, I went through a battle of faith, patience, trust, and truth. The job I applied for was my ideal job. It was with a major contracting company, I would be able to work with tools I was eagerly learning in graduate school, and I would receive valuable experience. There was even a strong possibility of a sizable pay increase. For months, I prayed, fasted and continually read my Word diligently.

The interesting thing about this situation was since I had truth, which guided and increased my faith, I refused to look for another job. Knowing that there was a great possibility of not getting the job, I had to stand on truth. I constantly prayed for God to open doors no man can close and close doors no man can open. I was diligent in pursuing the job until an interview finally came.

When I interviewed, I knew the job was mine! Not only did I have a solid resumé, but one of the persons interviewing me was a former co-worker in which I had a good relationship.

A couple of weeks after the interview, I didn't hear anything. I called, sent e-mails, but still nothing. The more time passed, the harder I had to pray and the more I had to hold on to truth. Deep down in my heart, I believed God told me I was going to get the job. I had even more truth to hold onto.

At the beginning of 2008, I lost my current job. Now I was unemployed but I held on to the truth I read in God's Word and the truth God placed in my heart. The weeks continued to go by and finally I got a call. The manager informed me that I didn't get the job due to lack of experience, but there was a job request that was sent to him that morning he thought I would be a good fit for. The manager seemed impressed with my diligence for the first job (which was the favor of God) and he made sure I had the first opportunity to apply for the one he recommended. He then limited other applicants from applying. A couple of weeks later, I found myself working in the second ideal job.

The interesting thing about trusting God and knowing His truth is I had to trust Him not for just a job, but for the right job. The second job was less money and fewer benefits than the first and even my previous job. But the person who did get the first job was laid off three years later due to a lack of contract funding. I'm still employed and going on four years. Not only do we have to trust in things we can see or know, but trust in God's truth in the things unseen and unknown and that comes by knowing and applying His truth.

Battle is the Lord's Bible Study Series: Belt of Truth

The month of June continues the Bible study series, The Battle is the Lord's in which the focus was on the Belt of Truth from the book of Ephesians, chapter six. Every month, the G.T.A.H. Ministry studies about the Armor of God, led by Minister Leo Finkley. In the study, we learned that we must be truthful with ourselves and with God. Minister Finkley gave several great points, but what stood out the most was having to be truthful with yourself and releasing your past. When you are saved and have accepted God in your life, you can not do the things that you use to do. You have to let go of old habits, patterns, ways, and extra baggage.

Another key point taken from the Bible study was being thankful and not complain. God has a purpose for everyone; you have to know what that purpose is and why. When you are truthful with God and walking in truth with Him, the "old you" will slowly die. If you need better understanding of your purpose, pray and ask God to give you it to you.

The last and final point that caught my attention was when Minister Finkley asked the question, "Do you give glory through the good and bad?" God deserves glory at all times. Sometimes we get distracted or things do not go our way and we forget to give glory where it is due.

This Bible study was very beneficial to me because sometimes I am not truthful to myself. And if I am not truthful to myself, how can I be truthful to God? I learned in order for this to happen, I have to work on myself by working on priorities, work on who I keep company with, and also work on my weaknesses. My suggestion to others: Always remember that God's word is always the TRUTH.

Men's Ministry: Experience at the Cedine Ministry Retreat

Greetings Union Grove,

My name is Wayne Jones, the proud husband of one of Union Grove's faithful members, Mrs. Lenora Jones. I accepted the invitation from Leroy Frazier to go on a men's retreat at Cedine Ministries in Spring City, Tennessee. At first, I was reluctant and tried to give meaningless excuses. Then I felt an urge in my spirit to get up and go along. It was the best decision! Once we got there and checked into our cabin, the journey of fellowship began. We all met up in the Jubilee Center for introductions, ice breakers, and singing. Our featured speaker, Bro. Robert Anderson from Maryland, did a fantastic job of presenting our theme, "Making My Brother Better." His inspirational text was very moving and made me want to get closer to Jesus and the Father. The workshops were great and enlightening and the best was getting to know each of the brothers from Union Grove a little better: Brother Leroy, Brother Jimmy, Brother Gene, and Brother Patrick.

Yours In Christ,
Wayne Jones

There is nothing like a "Cedine Experience!" The ride up to Tennessee allowed the five brothers to form closer relationships as we approached Cedine. Once in Cedine, the staff gave us our rooms and we settled in. The food was great, but the workshops were awesome.

All the workshops focused on "Making Your Brother Better." The workshops were Bible-based, the instructors were excellent, and they allowed time to answer questions.

We also had time to relax. There were many activities such as horseback riding, boating, and hayrides. But the best experience was learning more about other brothers and forming lasting relationships!
